

Kiwanis Club of Post Falls and WI at Treaty Rock - 2011

Brian with Post Falls Parks and Rec, Carl with WI, Buddy, Cynthia, and Andy, all from Kiwanis Club

Carl paints park bench slats and later helps to re-installed them.

The new north Idaho Chapter of Wilderness International teamed up with the Post Falls Kiwanis Club of Post Falls this spring. Kiwanis has adopted the Treaty Rock Park in Post Falls as part of their community outreach. Every spring, the Kiwanis Club helps out with park clean up, painting of park benches / picnic tables, picks up litter and performs general trail clean up.

Treaty Rock is a small but very nice park in the heart of the city. It shows where Fredrick post and Chief Andrew Seltice reached an agreement to allow a dam to be built at Post Falls, thus allowing a lumber mill to provide lumber for the surrounding communities. The agreement is carved into what is now called Treaty Rock.

Brian with Post Falls Parks and Rec trims some bushes and branches in the park.

Paul, Nancy, and Dave all work on a park picnic table to get it in shape for summer use.

There were many other people who helped work on this day, who are not in any photographs. We wish to thank all volunteers for their hard work and donation of time.
